

ECRU Studio

ECRU Studio was founded by Taiwanese Jin Chen after he gained praise for the interior design of his antique shop and was asked to work on commercial projects. Even though the studio is still in the process of forming a concrete identity, its style is already established as timeless and between primitive and modern. Their first residential project was T House, which was commissioned by someone who wanted a minimal and primitive yet chic home. Chen achieved this by choosing beige as the colour for the floors, walls and ceilings. Moreover, the luxurious look was elaborated through materials as limewash paint, travertine and walnut. The rather minimalist foundation of the residence was joined by modern and organic elements, such as the cylinder fireplace. Next, Undercurrent Objects created wall lamps out of plaster, while Chen collaborated with Lijpo Studio for the eye-catching coffee table. T House is certainly a promising start of other future projects of ECRU Studio.
